Selektion Weißburgunder von alten Reben
IGT Weinberg Dolomiten

Variety:

100% Pinot Blanc

Terroir:

Our vineyard "In der Lämm" is located in the municipality of Appiano at about 500 m above sea level. The west-facing, airy slope is very sunny and allows the grapes to reach perfect ripeness. Moraine soils from the last glacial period predominate here, mixed with volcanic rock of quartz-porphyr. In the partial shade of the traditional pergola system the grapes develop an elegant, complex fruit, which reflects this special terroir. The deep-rooted old vines do not require artificial irrigation.

Vintage 2019

The year 2019 began dry and warm, followed by a changeable April and a rainy, very cool early summer. The development of the vines was slow and led to a somewhat delayed flowering in June. It became midsummer warm, which favoured rapid and lush vine growth. The harvest then began a little later than in previous years in the first weeks of September. The beautiful autumn allowed us to wait for the ideal harvest time. The long ripening period and the beautiful weather at harvest created the conditions for a very good vintage.

Winemaking:

Our Abraham Art was vinified from a selection of the best ripened grapes. Only small, loose grapes from the oldest vines were used for this selection. Gentle pressing was followed by natural clarification through sedimentation. This was followed by a very slow, natural fermentation in mostly new 600l oak barrels also malolactic fermentation is done. The wine aged for 24 months on full lees.
